Mycobacterium tuberculosis sonicate-induced apoptosis of monocytes: involvement of tumor necrosis factor-alpha. Host immune response plays an important role in the control of M. tuberculosis infection. In this study, we evaluated the ability of M. tuberculosis sonicate to induce apoptosis in human monocytes, and the possible role of tumor necrosis factor-alpha (TNF-alpha) in such ability. TNF-alpha level was assessed in patient sera as well as in the culture supernatant. Apoptosis was assayed by flow cytometry and by the cleavage of Poly [ADP-ribose] polymerase (PARP), a substrate for caspases.

TNF-alpha was found to be released from monocytes in response to M. tuberculosis sonicate, and this release was higher in patients with active tuberculosis (ATB) than in those with latent tuberculosis infection (LTB). The TNF-alpha-neutralizing monoclonal antibody significantly reduced M. tuberculosis-induced apoptosis of monocytes (from 85% to 40%, $p = 0.04$) as compared to the isotype-matched control antibody, which had no effect. M. tuberculosis-induced apoptosis of monocytes was observed in patients with ATB (from 90% to 50%, $p = 0.04$), but not in those with LTB. M. tuberculosis sonicate induces apoptosis of monocytes through the release of TNFalpha. UPDATES with video at 11pm -- Councilmember and mayoral candidate Johnna Grimm called for the arrest of a man who harassed her with threats for nearly two years as a ticket inspector at a New Orleans Holiday in Lights Festival event.

While Grimm was disputing traffic tickets on New Year's Day

2004, Robert Deruyf, a 58-year-old New Orleans resident, was arrested for making threats against her and for criminal trespassing. Grimm spoke for the first time about the incident on National Public Radio's Fresh Air. When Deruyf was arrested, Grimm spoke of the incident with a crowd of people who were supportive. "He said, 'I'm going to run into the crowd and kick your a*s out.' And then I actually got arrested for that, and then in the middle of that arrest, I called the police," she said. The incident with Deruyf began when a friend's nephew, 22-year-old William Crouch of Baton Rouge, was

Category:The 1975 1975Q: How can I get a field's value from a grouped result in C#? I'm using a IQueryable to retrieve some data from a database. I'd like to include a field from the data into the result but I don't want to modify the source of the data. This is a simplified example of the code I'm using: // I don't want to modify my entity private Foo Entity { get; set; } // I would like to get the data from the database private IQueryable Query() { return (from entry in MyDbContext.GetMyEntities() select entry.Entity); } // Get the value I want public string EntityValue { get { if (Entity != null) return Entity.SomeField; return "Unknown"; } } This works fine, but it forces me to create a variable if Entity is null because the compiler complains that I'm returning a result from an expression. I've also tried public string EntityValue { get { var entityValue = Entity.SomeField; if (entityValue != null) return entityValue; return "Unknown";

} } but this complains that Entity.SomeField is read only. What I'd like is a way to return a field from an entity that I retrieve from the database, using IQueryable. The closest I have found is using the Linq to Entity framework for EF4 but I'd like to stay away from that if possible. I'm using .net 3.5 with
