When I visit the webpage mentioned above, the only version I can download is 1.0.0.0 I did some investigation and found this DLL file also have not change much, but there are some new contents when I checked with IDA Pro. After I downloaded 1.0.0.0, the image below is shown. Why do I have so many versions? Why is that there are so many dlls in this download site? A: I have to ask: Why would you download a file like this? I can think of at least two reasons: You are not the first to ask this question. This site gets hits from multiple search engines, and the question is probably getting too much traffic. So they, in a callous way, decided to implement a paywall. They are currently, from the download numbers, not making any money from this download. So, they are making an attempt to reduce the number of downloaders. They will only spend so much money. They have to have a "break even" point. After that point they will stop developing this download site. This is just a guess, and I can't be sure that is the reason. I do know that "The download server may be under DDoS attack" is a valid reason. DDoS is a denial of service attack, it floods the server with so much traffic that it can't handle any more connections. You can try to help them. If you would like to help them develop and improve this site, please let them know. If you would like to help them get some money, please contact their webmaster. Alternatively you can delete the file. Then check if the problem with your file is resolved. A: Mystery file: This is just a guess, but I think that there may be a possibility that there's a server that is under DDoS attack. If you're getting a lot of downloads, they may be getting lots of traffic. There may be someone out there who thinks you're downloading illegal things. Reason to the mysteries: This is just a guess, but there are also several reasons that would make the number of downloads of this file very high. People may be downloading the file because of the file 4bc0debe42
